

RSVP ADVISORY COUNCIL

345 West Ashley Road
Boonville, MO 65233
660 882-5601

The Retired Senior Volunteer Program connects men and women aged 55 and older to their communities, through meaningful volunteer opportunities. RSVP Volunteers lead by experience and influence the lives of the people in their own communities.

The program has shown proven success for the communities as well as the individual volunteer. Statistics have shown volunteers have increased mental and physical wellness through continued involvement in their communities.

The Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) is operated by a Federal Grant called Ameri Corps Seniors, one of the largest volunteer organizations in the Nation. Central Missouri Community Action (CMCA) is the agency whom was selected to receive the Grant and facilitates the RSVP Program.

We are seeking to fulfill our Advisory Council with likeminded members whom match with our mission of the program, and whom would also benefit from many of the functions of the council.

Members are invited to evaluate program accomplishments, assess program objectives, help formulate policy changes and recommendations as needed. Council members may also assist with recruitment, orientation, fund-raising, and recognition activities.

RSVP Council will meet Quarterly -January, April, July, and October. Invitations/Reminders will be sent to each member via email to confirm meeting times closer to the date.

Please consider serving your community by supporting this very fundamental program and as we are excited it has expanded in our county.

Please contact RSVP Program Manager Bobbie Jo Carey to accept your opportunity to serve.

What is RSVP?

The AmeriCorps Seniors RSVP program pairs individuals aged 55 and older with organizations making change in Cooper county. Volunteers who serve in our RSVP program choose how, where, and when they want to serve, with commitments ranging from a few hours to 40 hours per week. Volunteers become a solution to local, regional, and national challenges by supporting individuals and agencies in their neighborhoods.

RSVP volunteers learn new skills, make new friends and become more active in their communities. We also work to match volunteer qualifications (time, talent, and experience) with needs of area non-profit and governmental organizations. AmeriCorps Seniors volunteers themselves report better health and longevity having served their community.

How does the program work?

Each potential RSVP volunteer meets with a member of the staff and completes an enrollment form and an interest inventory. Then the staff member visits with the individual about their interests and time available for volunteer assignments. The volunteer and staff review the opportunities that are available.

Based on the time commitment and the qualifications for the various volunteer positions, the volunteer decides which assignment they would like to pursue. After a volunteer chooses an activity of interest, a staff member will arrange for the volunteer to meet with the station supervisor from the agency. During the interview, the supervisor provides detailed information about the volunteer activity. The interview provides an opportunity for the volunteer to learn more about the assignment and for the supervisor to determine if the volunteer has the necessary qualifications for the position.

What is a volunteer station?

A volunteer station is any public or private non-profit organization, or health care organization where RSVP volunteers are assigned. To be an active volunteer station an organization must sign a Memorandum of Understanding with the RSVP program.

The MOU establishes working relationships, cooperation and communication between the volunteer station and RSVP. The MOU designates the person responsible for supervising volunteers and submitting any information RSVP might need for grant reporting and verification of volunteer hours. The volunteer station staff provides you with instruction and materials to accomplish your assignment.

History of RSVP

RSVP was launched in the spring of 1971 under the Administration on Aging (AoA). In July of the same year, RSVP was transferred from the AOA to the federal agency, ACTION, which had oversight of federal domestic volunteer programs. Eleven projects were started in the summer of 1971.

In 1993, the Corporation for National Service was established with the National and Community Service Trust Act of 1993 was signed. This new act lowered the age for participation in the RSVP program from 60 to 55 and eliminated a requirement that volunteers no longer be in the work force. RSVP became one of three existing volunteer programs for older adults to be administered by the Corporation under the banner of the "National Senior Corps."

In 2020, Senior Corps was rebranded into AmeriCorps Seniors with over 270,000 volunteers contributing over 1.6 billion hours of service to their communities through a network of 40,000 local non-profit and community based organizations.

RSVP now serves in more than 1,400 counties nationally. RSVP volunteers continue to make a difference in the lives of those they serve and their communities, while enriching their own lives through service.
